The Most Important Day?

I was listening to a popular sports program as they ran an advertisement for the new football season. The ad said, “When the NFL is back, Sunday becomes the most important day of the week.” This statement is such a sad commentary of our society. It could be that in NFL cities across the land; from LA to Dallas, Atlanta to New England, that there are more people attending football games on Sundays than worship services. To the NFL, all non football Sundays have little importance.

I do agree that Sunday is the most important day of the week. But it became so long before our sports came along. “Very early on the first day of the week” (Mk. 16:2) Jesus came out of the tomb, the “firstfruits” of the resurrection (1 Co.15:20-23). Sundays became important because it was the day Christ rose from the dead. For two thousand years mankind has met on Sundays to celebrate Christ's death and resurrection by the partaking of communion.

I ask you, “which is more important; an NFL game or eternal life, the Packers winning over the Bears or you winning over death?” Let our worship to God, not our recreation, make Sundays become the most important day of the week.
